Evaluating pilot programs – additional questions

How do you evolve your evaluation criteria to ensure you keep current with learnings through the pilot?

In short, we developed the Program Logic with ISCRR (those undertaking the evaluation), developed the evaluation framework and shared with them before finalising.

We were therefore all clear on what was to be evaluated and how, but in saying that, agreed from the start that we would likely iterate based on feedback, meaning we may need to adjust (add to) our evaluation criteria also.

Where changes were made to the model, we always reviewed the evaluation framework to determine if changes were needed.

We had regular catch-ups with ISCRR outside of the working group, and worked through any required changes together, to ensure we had full confidence in our evaluation, and it would answer our questions as we evolved.
